

SHORTLISTED TEAMS TO BE FUNDED FOR MAGIC 2010

Australia

- 1 MAGICIAN, University of Western Australia (Robotics and Automation Laboratory, Adaptive Systems Research Group), Flinders University (Artificial Intelligence and Intelligent Systems Laboratories), Edith Cowan University (Artificial Intelligence and Software Engineering Cluster), Thales Australia (D3S&A, Naval Division), ILLIARC Pty Ltd.
- 2 STRATEGIC ENGINEERING (an Australian robotics company specialising in advanced sensing, vision systems, autonomous vehicles, industrial robotics and field robotic platforms), with the University of Adelaide.

Canada

- 3 NORTHERN HUNTERS – Canada (Comprising Amtech Aeronautical Ltd, Scientific Instrumentation Ltd, Royal Military College of Canada.

Japan

- 4 CHIBA TEAM/Chiba University – Japan (Comprising Chiba University and Analytical Software Inc.)

Turkey

- 5 CAPPADOCIA – Turkey (Comprising ASELSAN (Turkish military electronics company) with Bilkent University, Bogazici University, Middle East Technical University from Turkey, and Ohio State University (Control & Intelligent Transportation Research Lab) of the USA.

USA

- 6 RASR - Reconnaissance and Autonomy for Small Robots Team - USA (Lead: Robotic Research, LLC; with Industry Partners: General Dynamics Robotic Systems, QinetiQ-NA, Del Services, Cedar Creek Defense, Carnegie Mellon Robotics Institute, Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, University of Michigan.)
- 7 TEAM CORNELL, Cornell University – USA (School of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering.)
- 8 TEAM MICHIGAN - USA (Comprising SoarTech with research support from the University of Michigan.)
- 9 VIRGINIA TECH – USA (Department of Mechanical Engineering).
- 10 UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA – USA (With BAE Systems as auxiliary team members.)

TEAMS SHORTLISTED FOR SELF-FUNDING

Australia

- 11 NUMINANCE - Australia (Comprising Numinance Pty Ltd and LaTrobe University with support from ten small companies).
- 12 UNIVERSITY OF NEW SOUTH WALES - Australia (Teaming with Kumamoto University, Japan, and University of Western Sydney).

(November 2009)